

Ryan Corner Wind Farm

Weekly Construction Report October 02, 2023

General:

Beautiful sunshine and low winds, most days, again this week. The spring weather is certainly helping progress on the wind farm. The civil works are coming to a close and the finishing touches are being done to the access tracks and hardstands.

Foundations and Access Tracks:

2 more foundations were poured during the week leaving only one foundation to be poured.

The access tracks are fully completed and kept in good condition for the turbine installation.

Turbine Erection and Connection:

Eight turbines have been fully erected and 12 have the first two tower sections in place. The long weekend gave the opportunity to move the cranes ready to start the erection of the next 2 towers.

A bench has been prepared to accommodate the statcom system (static synchronous compensator).
