Site Visit

Members of the local CFA brigades visited the wind farm site to become familiar with safety measures in place prior to the 2023/24 fire danger period. Mike Kerr, site manager presented updated information about the site and the location of water points and emergency procedures. Representatives from Vestas provided extra information about the fire suppression systems in the turbines and their emergency protocols. David Ferguson, CFA area commander, led the local groups in asking questions and clarifying the information presented.

The members present then had a tour of the site, confirming the water access points, fittings and systems for ensuring the water points are kept full during the fire season. Members were also shown inside the base of a turbine and the basics of how a rescue would be conducted was explained. Senior members of CFA and fire rescue will visit the site in early 2024.

David Ferguson attended a pre-start meeting the following week and spoke to the personnel about the fire dangers and how to work safely work during this period.
